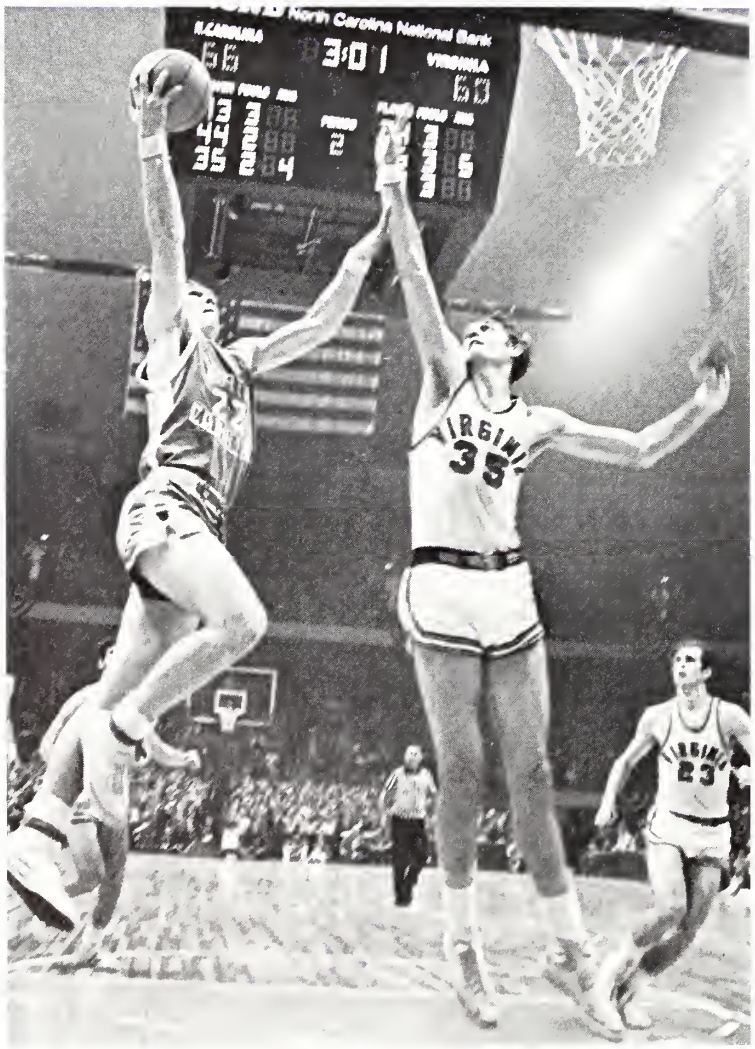
PROSPECTUS '71-'72



Sparked by a stunning 1970-71 season in which they swept the National Invitation Tournament championship, the North Carolina Tar Heels look ahead to the new basketball season with high hopes.

Coach Dean Smith's Tar Heels were picked to finish in the second division of the Atlantic Coast Conference last year, but posted a 26-6 record and won the regular season championship of the league.

It was another in a long line of achievements for Carolina basketballers who always seem to wind up in the national limelight. The Tar Heels have played in a national tournament each of the past five years.

Heading the Carolina returning cast are four players who started last year. They are forwards Dennis Wuycik, 6-6, of Ambridge, Pa., and Bill Chamberlain, 6-6, of New York City and guards Steve Previs, 6-3, of Bethel Park, Pa., and George Karl, 6-2, of Penn Hills, Pa.

Wuycik and Chamberlain are hot candidates for national all-star honors. Wuycik led the Tar Heels in scoring last year with an 18.4 average before suffering a torn ligament in his knee in the first round of the NIT. He is making a rapid recovery from surgery and should be ready to go at full speed next season.

With Wuycik sidelined in New York, Chamberlain took up the slack and played so brilliantly that he was selected the NIT's Most Valuable Player. Chamberlain finished the season with a 14.4 scoring average.

Karl, a second team all-ACC choice as a sophomore last year, also is rated as a strong all-star candidate. He's the quarterback of the team and a good scorer who averaged 12.3 points a game last year.

Previs was a dynamic performer in 1971, too. He was voted the team's best defensive player and won an award as the most inspirational Tar Heel.

The fifth 1971 starter, 6-10 Lee Dedmon, graduates, leaving a big hole to be filled. Dedmon came on strong in his senior season to become one of the best big men in college basketball.

Other chief losses from last year's team are 6-7 Dave Chadwick, who played a hero's role in the NIT; 6-1 Dale Gipple, a key backcourt reserve. Two other seniors who did not play prominent roles were guard Richard Tuttle and forward Don Eggleston.

Four players will be battling for front court spots and Smith says they must all come through in order to replace the tall graduates, Dedmon, Chadwick and Eggleston. The four are returnees Don Johnston (6-8) and Craig Corson (6-9), rising sophomore Bobby Jones (6-9), who was a leader on the freshman team last year; and 6-10 Robert McAdoo, Smith's first junior college transfer from Vincinnes Junior College. A native of Greensboro, N.C., McAdoo looms as a valuable addition to the Tar Heel squad.

Other returnees are Kim Huband, one of the nation's best reserves last year in the backcourt; swing man Billy Chambers and backcourt players John Cox and John Austin.

Smith looks to six seniors for leadership. They are Wuycik, Chamberlain, Previs, Huband, Corson and Chambers.

Four players up from the freshman team could figure prominently in team plans. In addition to Jones, these freshmen are John O'Donnell, a 6-6 forward from New York City, Ray Hite, 5-11 guard from Hyattsville, Md., and Darrell Elston, a 6-4 swing man from Tipton, Ind.

Smith says that all spots on the team are open, but admits the backcourt is fairly well set with Karl, Previs and Huband returning. There is a possibility, however, that he could shift Chamberlain to guard and give the team greater overall height.

COACH DEAN SMITH
Views the 1971-'72 Season

"I expect Carolina to be a contender for the ACC championship next season and, because of the strength of our league, that automatically means we should attract some national attention.

"However, because of our success last season and the return of four starters, we have lost the element of surprise. I think that was a factor last season. We must remain hungry.

"The loss of Lee Dedmon leaves us with a big hole to fill in the frontcourt. He did an outstanding job for us last year. Four players, Donn Johnston, Craig Corson, Bobby Jones and transfer student Robert McAdoo, must come through to replace the size we lost in Dedmon, Dave Chadwick and Don Eggleston.

"We again will rely on team play and pressure defense. But rebounding remains our No. 1 concern just as it was a year ago.

"Our schedule is even more difficult than last year's schedule which ranked among the toughest in America. It would be difficult to even approach our record of a year ago especially in view of the fact that we won so many close games in 1971. As always, ACC teams will suffer in the national polls because the conference is so tough and our teams knock off each other."

The University

If Hinton James had ridden his horse from Wilmington to enroll at the University of North Carolina this fall, Old Nellie would probably have come to a quick stop at the Chapel Hill city limits while the rider asked what had happened.

James made that long ride from the coast in 1795 to enroll as the first student at UNC. That was quite a different era. George Washington was president and UNC was nothing more than an impoverished little school of classical studies on a wooded hill named for a chapel called New Hope. It was the only state university in the nation then.

James and his 40 classmates were taught by two professors in a single building. Since then, the campus has literally exploded. Today the University sprawls over many acres and high rise buildings—like the 10-story Hinton James dormitory named for the first student—break the Chapel Hill skyline.

But 176 years of planning has created a campus considered one of the most beautiful anywhere. Hinton James found walks through the Carolina forests conducive to his academic life. Today, Carolina students still find plenty of tree-lined paths leading to a refuge from the classroom.

North Carolina has earned the reputation of being the most progressive and liberal of southern states, and Chapel Hill has long been known as the state's most liberal town. Pretenses have no support here. Novelists and artists engage in lively debate with restaurateurs and the town's leading mechanic may appear more successful than the banker he is talking to in front of the post office. And it is a town to which many retire.

The Morehead Planetarium on the campus has trained all of the astronauts and research being conducted all over the campus is reaching for the future. An integral part of the University is vast medical complex which includes N.C. Memorial Hospital and trains many of the state's doctors, dentists and public health experts.

Thirty-one of North Carolina's 50 governors have been graduates of the University at Chapel Hill and one president—James K. Polk of his class of 1818—went on to become president.

Carolina ranks at the top of southern Universities in a comprehensive study conducted by the American Council on Education, and most scholars from other colleges and universities in the south choose UNC when awarded by the Southern Fellowship Fund.

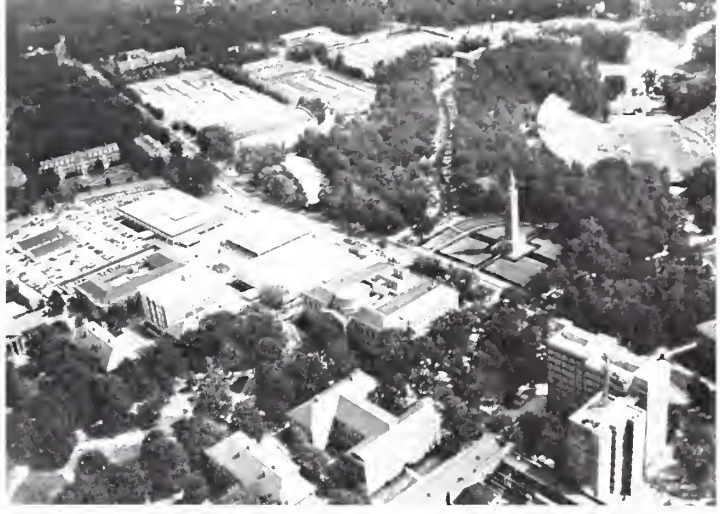
The arts have an active home in Chapel Hill and most of the 19,000 students this year will have some contact with a concert, art exhibition, play, or lecture.

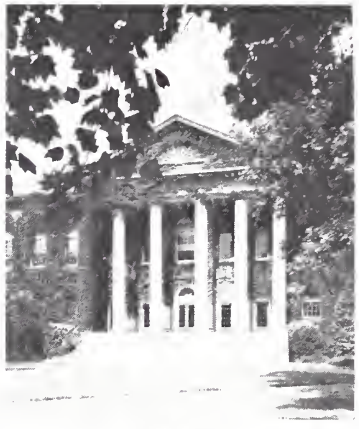
Chapel Hill is a literary haven. Thomas Wolfe, Paul Green and LeGette Blythe have all found adventure and beauty on the campus. The other well-known graduates are too numerous to list. Perhaps the most famous name associated with the faculty is Kay Kyser, the original "Professor of Musical Knowledge" on radio.

It is a cosmopolitan little town despite its sleepy appearance. Of a fulltime faculty of more than 1,200, more than half are natives of states other than North Carolina. All 50 states are represented in the student body as well as many foreign countries.

In athletics, the Tar Heel brand is well-known. There are now 14 varsity and several freshman and junior varsity sports at the University. Over the years Carolina has produced such national sports figures as Lennie Rosenbluth, National Basketball Player of the Year in 1957; Charlie 'Choo Choo' Justice, one of college football's all-time greats; Jim Beatty, the first American to break the four-minute mile barrier indoors; David Lemonds, National Baseball Player of the Year in 1968; Charlie Scott, one of basketball's all-time super-stars; and halfback Don McCauley, who holds every Atlantic Coast Conference rushing record.

Hinton James would be surprised. The campus of today would not be recognizable to him. But a serene, gentle way of life which has always hung heavy in the Chapel Hill air has not changed since 1795. The striving for excellence in the hearts and mind of the University has not changed. And the giant poplar tree where James thought away spring afternoons is still there, offering a resting place for yet another generation of young men and women.





CARLYLE SITTERSON

Chancellor

It is no coincidence that J. Carlyle Sitterson has served as Chancellor of the University of North Carolina during a golden age in Tar Heel athletics. Dr. Sitterson sparked the drive which has produced big winners on The Hill.

When Dr. Sitterson steps down as chancellor January 1, 1972, to return to a full-time professorship, he will leave behind an athletic tradition which will serve as an inspiration to Tar Heel athletes for years to come.

Tar Heel teams made The Chancellor's last full year in office one to remember. Carolina posted the best overall record in Atlantic Coast Conference athletics in 1970-71 and captured the Carmichael Cup for excellence in all sports.

Here's what Chancellor Sitterson did to help make that feat possible:

1. He hired Bill Dooley to restore Carolina to football prominence. On Dooley's first day at Carolina, The Chancellor invited the coach to The Old Well for a drink of water and told Dooley, "Drink here often. It will refresh you and make you a winner."

2. During The Chancellor's term, he lent enthusiastic support to a basketball program which swept three consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference championships (1967-68-69) and culminated a golden era with a championship sweep in the National Invitational Tournament last year.

3. The Chancellor hired Homer Rice as Director of Athletics and then saw Mr. Rice revitalize the Tar Heel program with an administrative style that is unique among athletic directors.

4. He approved the expansion of the Carolina athletic program to 14 varsity sports, one of the largest programs in the United States.

5. He authorized improvements to many University athletic facilities.

6. And most important of all, he continued his long-time role as Carolina's No. 1 fan.

Because of the great contributions he made to Carolina athletics and because he is Tar Heel Fan No. 1, we dedicate this edition of the Bluebook to Dr. Sitterson with every wish for his continued success.

Tar Heels everywhere are delighted that Dr. Sitterson will remain on the campus he loves as a Kenan Professor of History. He is an inspiring and enthusiastic teacher. In 1954, the campus literary magazine, the Carolina Quarterly, identified him as one of the "Ten Outstanding Professors" as adjudged by the students in the University.

Chancellor Sitterson has an approach to college athletics that is basic and understandable. "I look at our Athletic Department in the same manner I might look at our English or History Department," he says. "I expect excellence in all University programs. Athletics on the college level should be administered properly and above reproach. Our coaches are highly capable men. Our teams should perform accordingly."

Chancellor Sitterson has been a part of the Carolina scene since 1927—a total of 44 years. He enrolled here as a student in 1927 and was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He received the M. A. degree here in 1932 and the Ph.D. degree in 1937. He has been a member of the University faculty since 1935. He is the author of several books in his chosen field of American history.

His accomplishments in the field of education are many and varied. He is listed in: Who's Who In America; Who's Who In the South; Who Knows What; and the Directory of American Scholars.

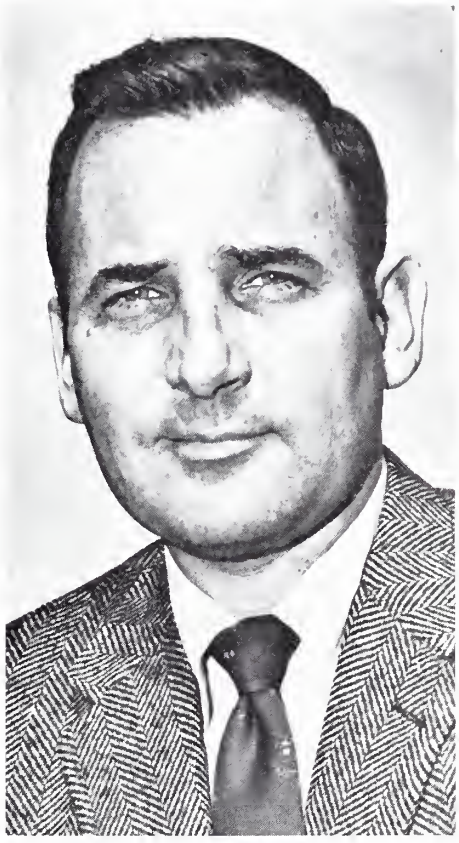
He recently received the Doctor of Literature degree from the University of Chattanooga.

Dr. Sitterson is a member of the National Association of Allergies and Infectious Disease Council, National Institute of Health, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, serves on committees of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, and of the Southern Historical Association.

He was elected by his colleagues to be Chairman of the American Conference of Academic Deans in the years 1964 and 1965. It is one of the highest academic offices that can be held by a scholar and administrator in higher education in the United States.

Dr. Sitterson was chosen in 1958 to be one of the 35 deans from throughout the nation to attend the Harvard University Institute for College and University administrators, participating in a week-long discussion on faculty recruitment, faculty promotion, curriculum planning, budget policy and the decision-making functions of the academic dean.

Chancellor Sitterson formerly was Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and Dean of the General College here. He served in those capacities until 1965 when he was made Vice Chancellor of the University with authority over the central campus and also the schools in the Health Affairs area, which includes Medical School, Dentistry, Nursing, Pharmacy and Public Health.



HOMER RICE

Athletic Director

Homer Rice, who revolutionized football offenses with the triple option, is working a different kind of magic now as director of athletics at the University of North Carolina.

In the two years since he swapped coaching at the University of Cincinnati for administration at Chapel Hill, Rice has learned the folkways and byways of varsity sports at Carolina and along the way has revitalized, if not revolutionized, the athletic facilities here.

Over the past two years he has brought about 18 additions and improvements to facilities, has added a varsity sport to the program and in general has taken steps to insure a bright future for Tar Heel athletics.

Homer Rice has managed to do all this with administrative style that is possibly unique among athletic directors. He rarely raises his voice, except to cheer Tar Heel teams. He delegates authority readily, and his art of getting things done is one of friendly persuasion rather than driving aggression. Those working with the athletic director have responded warmly and effectively to this approach.

The score to date under Rice's direction:

1. Installation of a new scoreboard at Kenan Stadium; 2. Completion of a lighting project for the baseball field; 3. Painting of Kenan Field House; 4. Renovation of the basketball dressing rooms; 5. Installation of an all-weather track; 6. Installation of additional scoreboards in Carmichael Auditorium; 7. Initiation of plans for the construction of permanent seats at the baseball field; 8. Renovation of the basketball coaching offices; 9. Construction of an addition to the Finley Club House; 10. Paving of the Rams Club patio; 11. Installation of new single standard football goalposts; 12. Replacement of the old barbecue stand at Kenan Stadium with a new mobile unit; 13. Addition of steps to the south entrance at Carmichael Auditorium; 14. Paving of the small parking lot in front of the Fetzer Field House; 15. Landscaping in Kenan Stadium and construction of a new concession stand there; 16. Cleaning and painting the interior of the press box and guest box; 17. Placement of steps at the Stadium parking lot; 18. Regrading and paving the ramp in the stadium parking lot.

Rice really is just getting warmed up. He has plans for many other improvements and additions to the facilities.

Since Rice became the Carolina athletic chief Jan. 27, 1969, gymnastics has been added as a varsity sport, giving the University a 14-sport program. "That is the biggest program in the Atlantic Coast Conference," he says, "and one of the largest in the nation."

Rice feels it is vitally important to maintain a good sports program. "More so today than ever before," he says. "Athletics is one part of our society where we teach discipline and I think that's very important. We are vitally concerned with how our young people turn out. That is how we will measure our success—by the quality of the young people who participate in our program."

Rice, 44, is the third man to head the Carolina athletic program in 48 years. The late Coach Bob Fetzer was the first, serving from 1922 until 1951; and he was succeeded by Chuck Erickson, who held the position until his retirement in May, 1968.

A native of Ft. Thomas, Ky., Rice is the son of a Methodist minister.

After serving with the Navy in the Pacific in World War II, he attended school at Centre College and made the little All-American team as a quarterback. He received an A.B. degree from Centre and a B.S. and M.E. degree from Eastern Kentucky State College.

Following his graduation from college, Rice played three seasons of baseball with the old Brooklyn Dodger chain. Then he began his career as a football coach.

He coached at Wartburg Central High in Tennessee, Spring City High in Tennessee and Highlands High at Ft. Thomas, Ky. In 1961, he received an award as the "Winningest Football Coach in America." His fantastic high school coaching record was 101 wins, nine losses and seven ties.

Rice then was an assistant coach at the University of Kentucky and the University of Oklahoma before landing the head job at Cincinnati. The 1968 Cincinnati team was so explosive that he led the nation in pass offense.

Rice has authored two books on football. The first, "How to Organize Football Practice," was published in 1962 and the other, "The Explosive Short T," was published in 1963.

Rice is married to the former Phyllis Wardrup of Middlesboro, Ky., an alumna of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. They have three daughters: Nancy, 20; Phyllis, 18; and Angela, 16.

Dean Smith

Mr. Basketball at the University of North Carolina is Dean Smith, one of the most famous athletic figures in the United States and one nice guy who never has finished last—or even close to it.

In fact, Smith makes a habit of finishing first. In 10 years at the Carolina helm, he has guided the Tar Heels to an astonishing record of 191 victories against only 75 defeats. (An average of 19-7 a season).

The record of the past five years tells an amazing success story. Smith has a total of 125 victories and ranks second only to John Wooden of UCLA among the nation's top winning coaches. Wooden has 145 wins.

In winning percentage over that five-year period, Smith ranks third behind Wooden and Al McGuire of Marquette. Wooden is 145-5, McGuire is 122-24 and Smith is 125-30.

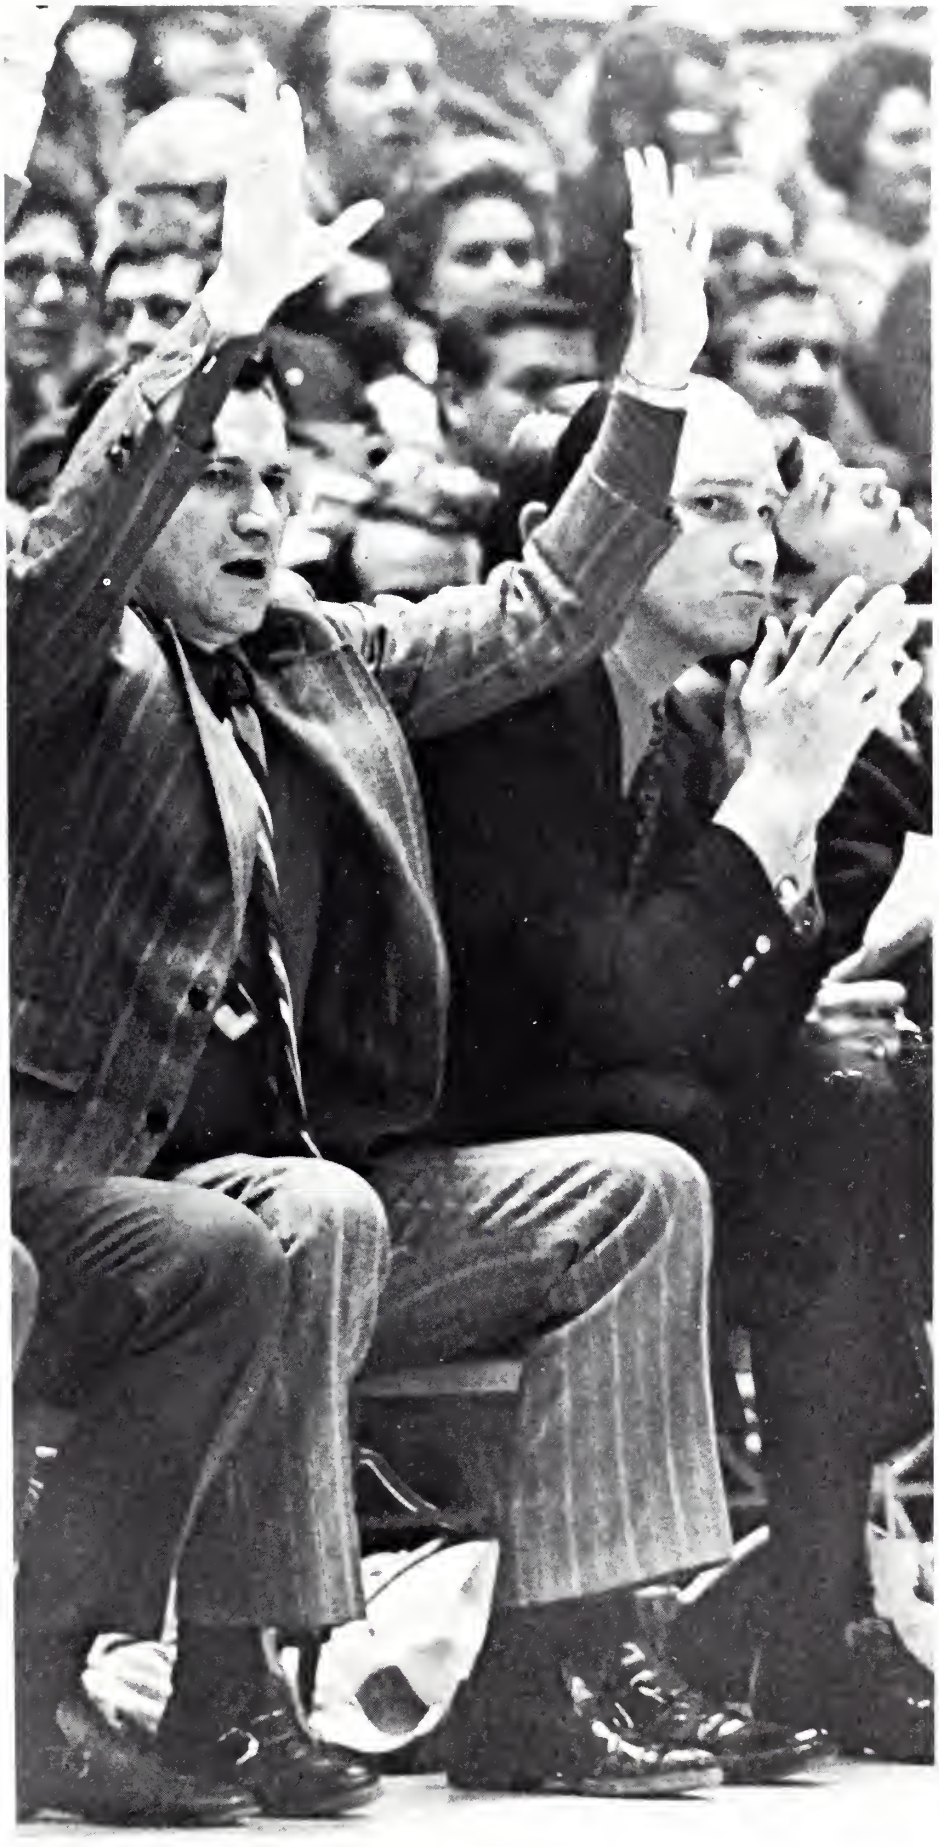
When it comes to Atlantic Coast Conference warfare, Smith has no peers. His five-year record in ACC play is 56-14 for a winning percentage of exactly .800. Nobody can top that or even come close to it.

In that five-year span, Smith's Carolina teams have won four ACC regular season championships, three ACC Tournament championships, three NCAA Eastern Regional titles and a sweep of the National Invitational Tournament championship last year.

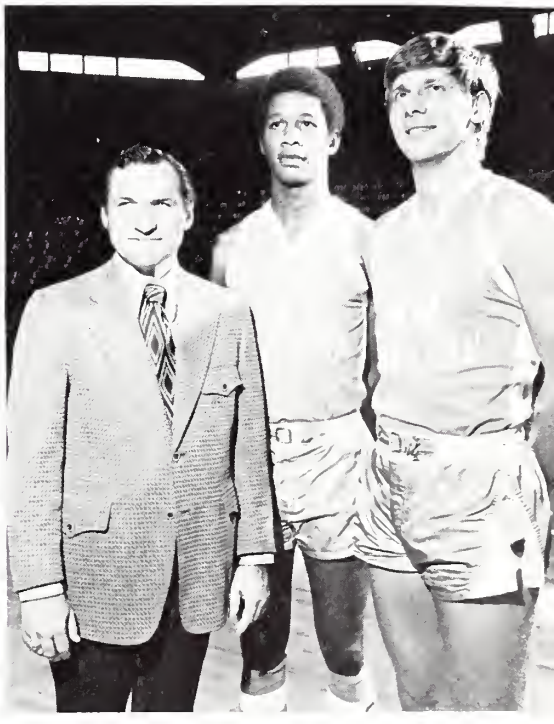
But the record doesn't tell all the story. Smith's very presence on the court spells excitement. His teams play exciting basketball with emphasis on defense and teamwork. Although the Tar Heels specialize in a whirlwind fast break, they have a very disciplined offense. Last year, Carolina, as a team, hit 52 percent of its shots from the floor.

Smith is known far and wide as one of the most popular figures in sports. It is possible that the Rev. Billy Graham is the only North Carolinian who is better known around the world than Dean Smith.

Followers of the basketball scene claim that Smith turned in the greatest coaching job of his fabulous career last season. He lost heavily from his 1970 squad, including all-America Charlie Scott and some writers picked the Tar Heels to finish as low as seventh in the ACC race.



Defense is the name of Coach Smith's game.



Coach Smith and All-America candidates Bill Chamberlain and Dennis Wuycik.

But Carolina finished first, driving to a 12-2 regular season record. Perhaps no team that ever played the sport in North Carolina captured the imagination of the fans the way Smith's team did last year. It was a squad which displayed perfect teamwork and which beat its opponents on scrap and hustle.

South Carolina nipped the Tar Heels by a point in the ACC Tournament final so UNC went to the National Invitational Tournament against one of the strongest fields ever assembled in that event.

Smith's Tar Heels blasted Massachusetts in the first round, beat a good Providence team in the quarterfinals, disposed of Duke for the third time in the semifinals and then whipped Georgia Tech in the championship game.

When Smith and his Tar Heels clipped down the nets in Madison Square Garden, it was a fitting climax to one of the greatest seasons in Carolina history. And it was proof positive that Dean Smith is one of the greatest coaches the game has ever known.

Smith came all the way from Kansas to gain fame in the little town of Chapel Hill. A native of Emporia, Kans., he attended the University of Kansas on an academic scholarship. He played freshman football and varsity basketball and baseball.

Dean was an assistant basketball coach at the Air Force Academy in 1958 when he was brought to Carolina by Frank McGuire, then the Tar Heels' head coach.

His first team, caught with mediocre material, had an 8-9 record. He hasn't turned out a loser since then.

Smith, 40, is so greatly respected that he is called upon to lecture at clinics all over the world. He is a member of the National Rules Committee and is the youngest coach ever named to that group.

Smith makes hundreds of speeches each year. He is especially in demand all over the state of North Carolina. His own basketball camp at Carolina always turns away enrollment. The school is so popular that Smith doesn't even advertise it.

Dean has developed a keen interest in theology and reads every book he can find on the subject. He often takes time from his hectic schedule to have lunch or dinner with religion professors on campus and he finds their conversation stimulating.

In his spare time (and there is little of that), Smith plays golf and tennis, spins records and reads books. He is a fine golfer and is very competitive on the tennis court.

Smith continues his relationship with his players long after they graduate. Not just the stars, but everyone who wears a Tar Heel uniform.

The coach serves as a free agent for his players who wish to negotiate professional contracts. He arranged legal help for Charlie Scott when Charlie signed a pro contract with the Virginia Squires. Smith is proud of the fact that all the players who entered pro ball from Carolina received "no-cut" contracts. This list includes Billy Cunningham, Larry Brown, Doug Moe, Charlie Scott, Larry Miller, Bill Bunting, Dick Grubar, Bobby Lewis, Lee Dedmon and Dave Chadwick.

Bill Guthridge

Assistant Coach

When he is teaching players the fundamentals of Carolina basketball or competing with his fellow workers in the friendly game of picking football winners, Bill Guthridge carries with him an aura of success.

He's by far the best football forecaster in these parts. And he's also one of the top young basketball coaches in the business.

The talented Guthridge enters his fifth year on Dean Smith's varsity staff as co-assistant coach with John Lotz. He will also again serve as head freshman coach.

It is Guthridge's goal to prepare his first-year players for future varsity action, and at the same time win as many games as possible. In the past four years, he has accomplished both goals convincingly.

The 33-year-old Guthridge has fired his team to outstanding performances against talented Big Four and other area teams. His first two squads were Big Four champions, and despite a small number of scholarship players the next two seasons, the Tar Babies rose to compile an amazing record of 40 victories and only 16 losses.

Guthridge's success with the varsity has resulted in even more spectacular results than his achievements with the freshmen. In his four years of work with the varsity, he has seen the Tar Heels twice sweep Atlantic Coast Conference and NCAA Eastern championships and twice appear in the NIT, with last season's team taking that title also.

A native of Parsons, Kan., Bill was a starting guard for Big Eight champion Kansas State in 1958, 1959, and 1960. Following his graduation in 1960 he coached at Scott City High in Kansas for two years, then returned to his alma mater as an assistant to the famed Tex Winter.

Success accompanied Guthridge during his time on the Kansas State staff, with the Wildcats winning 93 games and losing only 43. Six years ago they advanced to the NCAA semifinals.

Dean Smith, who brought Guthridge to Carolina, rates him as one of the country's top young coaches. "I recognized long ago that Bill has an outstanding basketball mind," Smith says. "He's a winner and I'm certainly glad he's on our side."

Basketball is the most important game on his mind, but Bill also possesses a keen interest for other sports. In addition to his uncanny football predictions, he is a long-time St. Louis Cardinal baseball fan.

Guthridge and his wife Lessie have two sons, Jamie, 11, and Stuart, eight.

A team of championship calibre must be well-skilled through hours of practice in the fundamental techniques of the game.

There are very few men in the ranks of college basketball who can better impart these techniques than North Carolina assistant coach John Lotz.

During the six year of Lotz' tenure in Chapel Hill, Tar Heel teams have consistently averaged much higher shooting percentages than their opponents—from the field and free throw line. And much of the credit lies with John's expert instruction.

A superb marksman during his college basketball days, Lotz now devotes a large part of his time at daily practices working individually with members of the squad.

"John is one of the game's finest young coaches," says Smith. "I think I have the finest staff in America."

The head coach's praise bears greater truth when one looks at the record Carolina has compiled since Lotz' arrival on the scene in 1965—an amazing 141 wins and only 41 defeats.

Lotz played his college ball at East Texas State. He also attended Baylor University, but did not play basketball there.

A native of New York City, Lotz began his coaching career at a high school in Norwich, N.Y. His team there won 15 games after having won only one the previous season. The next year Lotz moved to a new high school in Long Island, Massapequa. The first senior class there won the South Shore Championship under his direction.

Lotz spends much of his time on recruiting missions, and ranks as one of the finest in the country in this department. He is also quite active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and is much in demand to make speeches to groups of that organization as well as at public functions.

John has a great reputation in the Chapel Hill community. "I can't begin to tell you how happy I am here," he says. "This is a great place to live and to work."

Lotz was married in October to the lovely Vicki Joyner of Durham.

Assistant Coach

Eddie Fogler

The newest member of the Carolina basketball coaching staff is Eddie Fogler, who distinguished himself as one of the Tar Heels' most popular players of recent years.

Fogler, a native of New York City, played on the Carolina teams of 1968, 1969 and 1970. The 1968 and 1969 teams swept the Atlantic Coast Conference and Eastern Regional championships and went to the National finals.

Eddie was a swift playmaking guard on those teams. He was rated one of the finest passers in Carolina history and could score when called upon to produce points.

Following his graduation from Carolina, Fogler spent last year teaching and coaching at Dematha High School in Washington, D.C. He coached the Dematha junior varsity team.

Fogler returned to the Carolina campus this fall as a graduate assistant. He will help Bill Guthridge coach the Tar Baby freshman team.

John Lacey

A vital key to any athletic team is the man who keeps the players in sound physical condition. John Lacey, beginning his 16th year as Carolina's trainer, is such a man on the Tar Heel scene.

One of the country's most respected men in his field, Lacey is a trainer of champions—with the record to prove it.

An indication of the high esteem Lacey has built within his profession is his recent selection to serve as head trainer for the United States Olympic teams at the 1972 Games in Munich, Germany.

The popular Carolina head trainer is thus making his second appearance at the Olympic Games. He was trainer of the U.S. basketball team which won the Olympic championship in Tokyo in 1964. At Munich he will be head trainer in charge of the overall United States program.

Lacey has worked with five football bowl teams, including the great 1963 UNC team which flattened the Air Force Academy in the Gator Bowl and the 1970 Peach Bowl squad.

John was introduced to Carolina sports by the late Jim Tatum who worked closely with Lacey at Maryland. While at Maryland, Lacey trained football and lacrosse teams which swept national championships. At Carolina, he helped the 1957 basketball team win a national title and trained last season's National Invitational Tournament cage champions.

A native of Wallingford, Conn., Lacey studied at Yale and at the Tilton School in Tilton, N.H. He is married to the former Barbara Koch of Wallingford.

Dean Weber

Fast becoming one of the most popular figures in the Carolina athletic camp is young Dean Weber.

Beginning his fourth year as the Tar Heels' assistant trainer, Weber is extremely popular with all the Carolina personnel and enjoys a special rapport with the players themselves.

Weber is a graduate of Bridgewater College at Bridgewater, Va., and was a teacher for one year in Rockingham County, Va. He majored in sociology at Bridgewater and took courses to prepare for a career as a trainer. He served as trainer of the Bridgewater teams for four years while still a student.

Walter Rabb

One of the key men in the Athletic Department at the University of North Carolina is Walter Rabb, the versatile assistant director of athletics.

Rabb is now in his 11th year at that important post. In that position he serves as the right-hand man to Athletic Director Homer Rice.

In addition to his administrative duties, Rabb also serves as head baseball coach at the University. He is one of the country's best known and most respected college coaches.

Rabb was instrumental in the formation of the North Carolina Summer Collegiate Baseball League last summer. It's the first collegiate league of its kind in America.

A native of Lenoir, N.C., Rabb graduated from North Carolina State University and attended graduate school at Carolina in 1940 and 1941. He joined the physical education staff in 1942.

Rabb became the assistant baseball coach under the late Bunn Hearn in 1949 and inherited the top job upon Hearn's death in 1957. Rabb actually directed the Tar Heel baseball operations throughout the early 50s because of Hearn's failing health.

Since taking the reins as head man, Rabb has led the Tar Heels to 371 wins against only 180 losses.

Coach Rabb was a fine baseball player at North Carolina State and later in professional ranks. He was noted as a slick fielding shortstop.

When he isn't busy with the Tar Heel athletic offices, Rabb usually can be found fishing or hunting. He's an expert at both sports.

He is married to the former Amy Warren of Snow Hill, N.C. and they have a son, Walter, and a daughter, Amy.

Chuck Erickson

Charles P. (Chuck) Erickson has never shot a basket for the Carolina Tar Heels, but he is one of the big reasons the UNC program ranks among the best in the nation.

Mr. Erickson, of course, is the former Director of Athletics at the University. He resigned in May, 1968 after 16 years at that post. He remains a key man at UNC in his role as Consultant and Advisor to the Department of Athletics.

It was Mr. Erickson who hired the current Carolina coaching staff of Dean Smith, John Lotz and Bill Guthridge—a staff that has guided the Tar Heels to five straight post-season tournaments. He was also instrumental in the building of Carmichael Auditorium.

In fact, Carolina enjoyed one of its greatest athletic eras under Mr. Erickson's leadership. Most of the athletic facilities here, which rank among the best in the nation, are the result of his planning. He personally raised the money from supporters and friends of the University for many of the building projects.

Shortly after he resigned as Athletic Director, friends of the University showed their appreciation for Mr. Erickson's tireless work with a testimonial dinner on the Carolina campus. He was presented with a new car and a check to pay off his home mortgage.

Mr. Erickson broke onto the Carolina scene over 45 years ago as a star halfback under Chuck Collins. He had come to Chapel Hill from Oak Park, Ill.

He received a Bachelor of Science degree in engineering and entered the world of business. But, in his stay at Carolina Mr. Erickson had grown to love Chapel Hill and returned here in the early 1930s.

In his UNC career, he has done just about everything. He has been a football coach, assistant graduate manager of athletics, fund raiser, scout and recruiter.

Mr. Erickson is married to the former Mildred Warnell. They have one daughter, Susan, and two grandchildren.

Carolina Basketball Tradition

When big-time college basketball is discussed, the North Carolina Tar Heels always become a major conversation piece.

Basketball is a boom sport at Carolina. And if you don't believe it, just check these facts and figures:

The Tar Heels have played in a National Tournament each of the past five years. The 1967, 1968, and 1969 teams swept the Atlantic Coast Conference and Eastern Regional championships en route to the NCAA finals. The 1970 and 1971 teams went to the National Invitational Tournament. Last year's team won the big prize in New York.

In that five-year period, Carolina has compiled an overall record of 125 victories against 30 defeats. That's a yearly average of 25 wins and six defeats.

In Atlantic Coast Conference play, the Carolina five-year record is 70 wins and only 17 defeats. And perhaps even more amazing is the fact that Carolina has beaten its tough Big Four rivals—Wake Forest, Duke, and North Carolina State—32 times in the last 40 meetings.

Carolina teams have swept 27 basketball championships in 61 years of intercollegiate competition.

The Tar Heels became the first team in history to win three consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference and regular season championships (1967-68-69).

Carolina became the first team in history to capture the Eastern Regional NCAA Tournament three years in a row (1967-68-69).

Carolina is one of only five teams to capture both the National Collegiate and National Invitational championships. The Tar Heels won the NCAA in 1957 with a perfect 32-0 record. Last year's team won the NIT, defeating Georgia Tech in the finals.

The crowds which turn out to see the Tar Heels play are proof of the popularity of the sport at Chapel Hill. Students sleep in Carmichael Auditorium often on the nights before tickets go on sale. Every home game is a complete sellout.

Carolina teams play big-name foes. In fact, the Tar Heel success of the past five years is even more amazing when you consider that the UNC schedules over that period have been rated among the toughest in the nation.

The Tar Heels play big-namers like Kentucky, UCLA, Ohio State, Purdue, St. Joseph's, St. John's Duquesne, Princeton, Utah, Oregon State, Vanderbilt, Indiana, Notre Dame, Georgia Tech, and many, many more. But the toughest opposition comes in the rugged ACC, rated the best overall league in the country. The teams in that powerful league are Wake Forest, North Carolina State, Virginia, Clemson, Maryland, and Duke.

In 61 years of cage competition at Carolina, the Tar Heels have won 980 games while losing only 413. Fifty-one of the school's 61 teams have posted winning records. There has been only one team with a losing record in the past 15 years.

Every player Dean Smith has coached in his Carolina career has graduated.

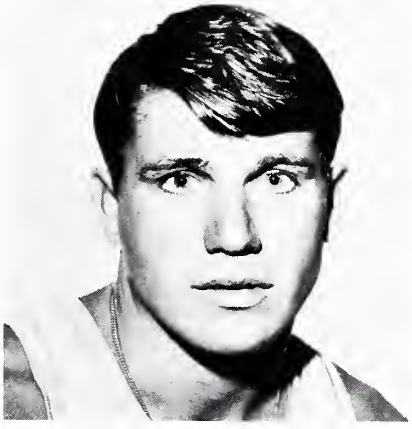
Billy Cunningham

Of the 51 graduates in the Dean Smith era at Carolina, 27 have gone on to graduate or professional school.

There are two dentists, eight attorneys, two medical doctors, five high school coaches and two college coaches among the graduates who played basketball under Dean Smith at Carolina.

Lee Shaffer

Nine of the graduates in the Dean Smith era at Carolina have played or are now playing professional basketball.

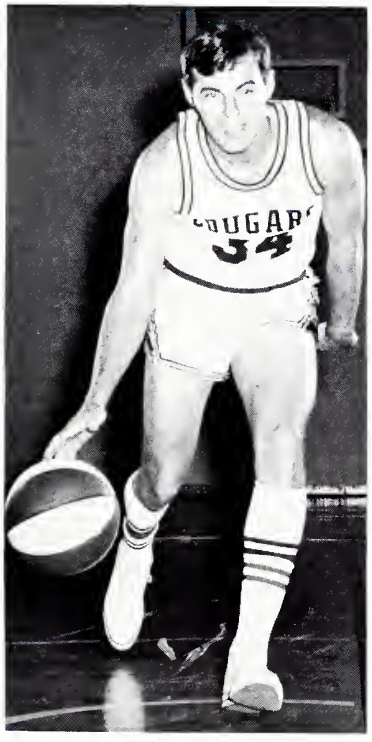


Larry Miller

George Glamack

Lettermen Since 1961

Only one player under Dean Smith has dropped out of school for any reason and that was to transfer to another University. This is an unbelieveable accomplishment at schools playing big-time basketball.



Doug Moe

Seven of Carolina's varsity basketball players made the ACC Academic Honor Roll last year. This has to be a record for any basketball team in ACC history. The Tar Heels making the honor roll were Dave Chadwick, Dennis Wuycik, Billy Chambers, Don Eggleston, Kim Huband. Steve Previs and Richard Tuttle.

1971 CONFERENCE RECORD: 6-8 (5th)
TEAM HONORS: Set Rice's all-time mark for total points (2,170)
LETTERMEN RETURNING: 6-2½ g Don Snyder, 5-11 g Dan McGuire, 6-5 f Leroy Marion, 6-10½ f Mark Wehrle, 6-6 f John Mott, 6-9 p Steve Emshoff.
LETTERMEN LOST: 6-2 g Gary Reist, 6-1 g Tom Myer, 6-6 f Ted Melady, 6-7 p Terry Timmerman, 6-6 f Bert Schmidt, 6-4 f Chuck Nelson.
REPLACEMENTS: 6-2½ g Scott Fisher, 6-1 g Kim Kaufman, 6-7 f John Kabbes, 6-7 f-p Randy Youngling.

Outlook

Owls plan to get away from guard-oriented offense and utilize scoring of inside men more. Plans are to continue pressure defense with more defensive emphasis. It's a young team, but with good personnel. If sophomores develop as expected, and provided Rice survives its unusually rough December schedule, Owls should be contenders for the Southwest Conference championship.

Outlook

Not since 1963-64 has a Pitt basketball team gone to a post-season tournament. The 1971-72 season could end that famine. "We're not hiding any longer," says Coach Charles 'Buzz' Ridl. "We're going after it. We hope to be in a post-season tournament." The Panthers return their top four scorers off last year's 14-10 team and have three outstanding rising sophomores. Top returnee is guard Kent Scott who averaged 13.6 last year. Forward Mickey Martin averaged better than 20 points a game as a freshman and could start at one forward. Junior college transfer Cleveland Edwards may start with Scott in the backcourt. Ridl plans to go with 8-10 players on a regular basis and to employ an aggressive, pressing defense and a running offense.

Outlook

Following a 14-11 rebuilding year, the 1971-72 Tigers will be counting on new-found strength up front, as well as proven backcourt power, in confronting a tight Ivy League race and a tough overall schedule. Last year Princeton led the Ivy League in defense and Coach Peter Carril thinks his team will be strong in that phase of the game again this season. Sophs John Berger and John Sadlosca should join with veterans Al Dufty and Bill Daake to give the Tigers good play at the forwards. Bill Kapler returns at center, but he is being pressed for the job by soph Andy Rimol. Brian Taylor (24.4) and Ted Manakas (14.0) give Princeton one of the finest backcourts in the East.

Outlook

New coach Don DeVoe must find a replacement for leading scorer Loyd King, but has the other four starters from last year's 14-11 team back to make things a little easier. Leading the team will be 6-7 junior Allan Bristow, a district All-America last season. He will team with 6-6 senior Charlie Lipscomb and 6-5 senior Tom Trice up front, while 6-4 senior Bill McNeer will be joined by either 6-1 senior Randy Minix or 6-4 soph Ed Frazier.

Outlook

Harvard, who won 11 of its final 13 games last year, appears headed for a super season this year. The Crimson return 10 lettermen, including a pair of juniors who sparked last season's late surge. Floyd Lewis, a 6-7 forward, averaged 17.2 points and 13.1 rebounds, while 6-6 guard James Brown hit for a 16.9 average. Joining Lewis on the frontline will be heralded 6-8 sophomore Tony Jenkins, who averaged 26.2 points and 17.3 rebounds for the frosh. Returnees include 6-7 Brian Newmark and 6-8 Tom Mustoe. Leading candidate to join Brown at guard is soph Jim Fitzsimmons, who transferred to Harvard after one term at Duke in 1970. Ken Wolfe, who averaged 18.6 for last year's freshmen, is another strong contender for that spot.

Outlook

Coach Jack McKinney looks to the 1971-72 season with cautious optimism due in large part to the return of eight lettermen, including three starters, from last year's Middle Atlantic Conference championship team. The Hawks posted a 19-9 record, bowing to Villanova in the NCAA playoffs. Center Mike Bantom, a 6-7 junior, who averaged 18.1 last year and junior forward Pat McFarland, who hit at a 17.0 clip, are expected to provide the bulk of the scoring again this season. The other forward position and the backcourt spots are up for grabs. McKinney is hoping to get help from last year's 20-3 freshman club, although returning starter Mike Moody has the inside track on one of the guard positions.

Outlook

With only three returning lettermen off last year's team, Bradley faces a rugged road in the opening part of the 1971-72 season. There are, however, several outstanding sophomore prospects off last year's 15-0 freshman club and if they can mature quickly, the Braves could be tough. The only starters back are Rich Schultz (13.6 ppg last year) and Sam Simmons (14.0). The top sophomore should be Mike Harrell who averaged 23.6 for the freshmen. Junior college transfer Jim Perryman, who averaged 18.6 at Lincoln College, could help in either the frontcourt or backcourt.

Outlook

Despite the loss of guard Larry Weatherford and forward George Faerber to graduation, hopes are high for a third post-season tournament appearance in four years for Purdue. Weatherford averaged 21.1 for the Boilermakers and Faerber was one of the keys to Purdue's tough defense. Top returnees are forward Bob Ford and center William Franklin. Coach George King will do a great deal of experimenting in the backcourt. There are four lettermen there and a pair of sophomore sensations—Dave Luke and Tom Gilbert. Faerber's forward spot is also up for grabs with five players in the running for that position.

Outlook

Furman basketball fans have great expectations for the 1971-72 season as the Paladins begin their second under Coach Joe Williams. Last year's team was 15-12, won the Southern Conference championship and made an appearance in the NCAA playoffs. Williams is predicting an even better team this year. Heading the list of returnees in Ross Hunt, a 6-7 post man who average 16.8 last season. Guards Don Jackson and Bernard Collier are other returning starters. There are five standout sophomore prospects and a highly-regarded junior college transfer in Roy Simpson, an All-America at Vincennes Junior College.

Outlook

Two starters, Dave Angel and Bud Martin, return from last year's squad that finished with a 9-17 mark. Junior college transfers Anthony Brown, Mel Francisco and Danny Miller will be a welcome addition to the squad. Locke inherits two sophomores, Terrell Suit and Denny Odle, from the 1970-71 frosh unit along with redshirt transfer Mike Browning, called "a super athlete" by Locke. This team will have more depth than Clemson's teams from the past and should be able to match with most opponents in the rugged Atlantic Coast Conference.

Outlook

Virginia basketball will be even better in 1971-72 than it was a year ago when the Cavaliers put together a 15-11 season. The Cavaliers return four starters off that team and have a blue chipper off last year's frosh to replace the graduated Bill Gerry. Barry Parkhill and Tim Rash give the Cavs one of the best backcourts in the South. Parkhill is a fine all-around player who led Virginia in scoring last season with a 15.9 average. Rash is an excellent outside shooter. Two-year starter Scott McCandlish returns at center. He hit a 15.2 clip a year ago. Frank DeWitt will again start at one forward spot with soph Bob McCurdy battling veteran Jim Hobgood for the other frontcourt position. Coach Bill Gibson says Virginia's success will depend on how well the rising sophomores come through.

REPLACEMENTS: 6-6 f Sam Jackson; 6-1 g Bob Dwyer; 6-2 g Jerry Campbell.

Outlook

Gone are ACC Player of the Year Charlie Davis and three other starters, but the outlook is not a dark one at Wake Forest. The Deacons have returning starter Rich Habegger and guard John Lewkowicz around whom to build their team. Both are solid players. Returnees Pat Kelly, Bobby Hook, John Orenczak and Willie Griffin will battle for starting spots. Junior transfer Sam Jackson is rated a possible all-star candidate by Coach Jack McCloskey. At 6-6, he may play either in the frontcourt or the backcourt. Soph Bobby Dwyer is another candidate for a starting guard position.

Richie O'Connor

Outlook

Despite the loss of four starters to graduation, hopes are high for another winning season at Duke University this year. But Coach Bucky Waters knows he faces a major task in replacing Randy Denton, Dick DeVenzio, Larry Saunders and Rick Katherman. Denton was the scoring and rebounding leader for three years. However, there are some bright spots. Heading the returning cast are juniors Richie O'Connor, Gary Melchionni and Alan Shaw. All started at one time or another last year. The other starting spots are wide open. O'Connor's ability to play in either the frontcourt or backcourt gives Waters flexibility in his line-up.

Blue Devils will run the ball a lot more this season than ever before. Loss of Denton and Saunders inside will hurt the rebounding and Coach Waters hopes to compensate with speed and defense. Club will press a lot more than before and the fast break will be a major weapon. Big problems will be rebounding and depth.

Outlook

This is the year and Terps are expected to achieve the second of three goals cited by Coach Lefty Driesell when he assumed the coaching duties at the University of Maryland three years ago. The Terps have achieved the first goal "National Prominence" and are well on the way towards the second goal "National Ranking". The bid for a berth in the "Top Ten" will be made with the tallest and most talented team to ever represent Maryland on the Basketball court. Seven of the 10 men return from the team that won 14 games last year and the freshman team that was rated the best in the nation (16-0) moves up. Jim O'Brien returns as the leading scorer for the varsity with a 16.3 average. Howard White returns with a 15.6 average along with Sparky Still 6-7, Charlie Blank 6-8, Bob Bodell 6-4 and Jack Neal 6-8, all part time starters last year. The freshmen were led by Tom McMillen, 6-11, with a 29.3 scoring average, a .625 field goal percentage and an average of 15.4 rebounds a game. Jap Trimble, 20.0, Rich Porac 11.6 and 10 assists a game and Len Elmore 6-9, along with Mark Cartwright, 15.7 and the first seven footer to ever play for the Terps are all contenders for starting berths, as sophomores.

Outlook

Solid height in the persons of Burleson (7-4), Coder (6-9) and Nuce (6-8) should make N.C. State an excellent board team. Overall outside shooting should be improved as should the backcourt performance with the acquisition of junior college transfer Cafferky. Lack of game-experience depth and untested guard play are shortcomings. Only four lettermen are on the squad. Burleson has super-star possibilities.

Outlook

Loss of four three-year lettermen, including record-setting center Rich Yunkus, and a schedule that lists five post-season tournament teams label 1971-72 a rebuilding year for Georgia Tech. Whack Hyder, in his 21st year at Tech, returns Robert (Peanut) Murphy, a 6-2 guard-forward (10.9), and 6-1 guard Frank Samoylo (7.5), but after them it's basically unproven talent. JUCO transfer Karl Binns will help at center, while sophomore Steve Post is a promising forward.

Outlook

Coach "Digger" Phelps faces a rebuilding year in his first season as coach of the Irish. Gone are Player of the Year Austin Carr and Collis Jones, both first round pro draft choices. In fact, there is only one letterman—guard John Egart. Phelps, who led Fordham to the NCAA playoffs last season, will center his attack—one which he hopes will include quickness, an aggressive defense and a tenacious press—around juniors Egart and Jim Regelean and sophomore whiz John Shumate. Shumate, a 6-8 center, averaged 22.4 for the 1971 frosh. Other promising sophomores are forwards Gary Novak and Tom O'Mara and guard Bob Valibus.

North Carolina's Tar Heels will represent the United States in the 1971 International Christmas Basketball Tournament at Madrid, Spain, on Dec. 23, 24 and 25.

Participating teams in addition to Carolina will be Real Madrid, the European champion; Juventud-Schweppes of Badalona, Spain; and Union Espanola of Santiago, Chile.

It will be a round robin tournament with each of the teams receiving two points for a victory and one point for a defeat. Here is the schedule of games:

Dec. 23—5:30 p.m.—Juventud-Schweppes vs. North Carolina.
7:30 p.m.—Real Madrid vs. Union Espanola.

Dec. 24—5:30 p.m.—North Carolina vs. Union Espanola.
7:30 p.m.—Real Madrid vs. Juventud-Schweppes.

Dec. 25—5:30 p.m.—Juventud-Schweppes vs. Union Espanola.
7:30 p.m.—Real Madrid vs. North Carolina.

This marks the first time ever that a Carolina basketball team has played overseas. The Tar Heels were selected to represent the United States after sweeping the National Invitational Championship last year. All expenses for the Tar Heels' trip to Madrid are being paid by Spanish authorities. Carolina's participation in the tournament was endorsed by the United States Basketball Federation.

The tournament will be staged in Madrid at the Pabellon de Deportes del Real Madrid. Plans call for the Carolina game against Real Madrid on Christmas Day to be telecast across Europe.

Coach Dean Smith says the competition in Spain will be tremendous. "The Spanish teams are very good," he says, "and Chile was a strong force in the Pan American competition last summer."

The Real Madrid team is sparked by 33-year-old Emiliano Rodriquez, three times a member of the European all-star team.

Plans call for the Tar Heels to leave for Spain on Dec. 20 and return on Dec. 26. The Tar Heels have a regularly scheduled game against Harvard in the Charlotte Coliseum on Dec. 27.

Carolina's Greatest Players

Great basketball players have come in all shapes and sizes at the University of North Carolina. In 61 years of excitement they've ranged from 5-10 Larry Brown to 6-11 Rusty Clark and from slender Lennie Rosenbluth to muscular Larry Miller.

All, however, have had one thing in common—They not only played the game with great skill, but also were outstanding men off the court as well.

Basketball has been around Chapel Hill for a long time. The University's first team took the court way back in 1911 and posted a 7-4 record. In fact, 51 of UNC's 61 teams have had winning marks.

Carolina won its first of eight Southern Conference Championships in 1922 and then swept the National Championship in 1924 with a 23-0 record.

That championship team was led by the Tar Heels' first truly great stars—Jack Cobb, Monk McDonald and Cartwright Carmichael. While the game's style of play has changed drastically since then, these men are still recognized as three of Carolina's all-time greats. Cobb, in fact, is a member of the Helms Basketball Hall of Fame.

Although the Tar Heels did not have an All-America like Cobb in the 1930s, there were many outstanding players. Ivan (Jack) Glace, Earl Ruth, Virgil Weathers, Tom Alexander, Jim McCachren and Stewart (Snooks) Aitken made the All-Southern Conference team during that decade.

The big star of the early '40s was George Glamack—"The Blind Bomber." Glamack had terrible eyesight and could barely see the basket while standing right under it. However, he developed the uncanny sense of knowing where the hoop was in relation to his position on the court. He perfected a hook shot which he shot with either hand and with great accuracy. He was a two-time All-America, Helms Player of the Year in 1941 and is now in the Hall of Fame.

All-America John "Hook" Dillon was the star of the 1946 team which lost to Oklahoma A&M in the national finals. However, he had an excellent supporting cast in Jim Jordan, Bones McKinney, Jim White and Bob Paxton. Jordan in fact had been an All-America in 1945 and the Most Valuable Player in the Southern Conference.

Eleven years later the Tar Heels again reached the national finals. This time they won, defeating Wilt Chamberlain and Kansas in a triple-overtime thriller that rates among the greatest college games ever.

Lean Lennie Rosenbluth was the big star of that team. He was named National Player of the Year. Rosenbluth was a great shooter and still holds the UNC career scoring record. Other starters on that team were Pete Brennan (who was to be an All-America himself the following year), Tommy Kearns, Bob Cunningham and Joe Quigg.

The stars were many during the 1960s. Big Lee Schaffer was the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in 1960. Schaffer was a great scorer and later became an all-star performer in the National Basketball Association with the Syracuse Nationals.

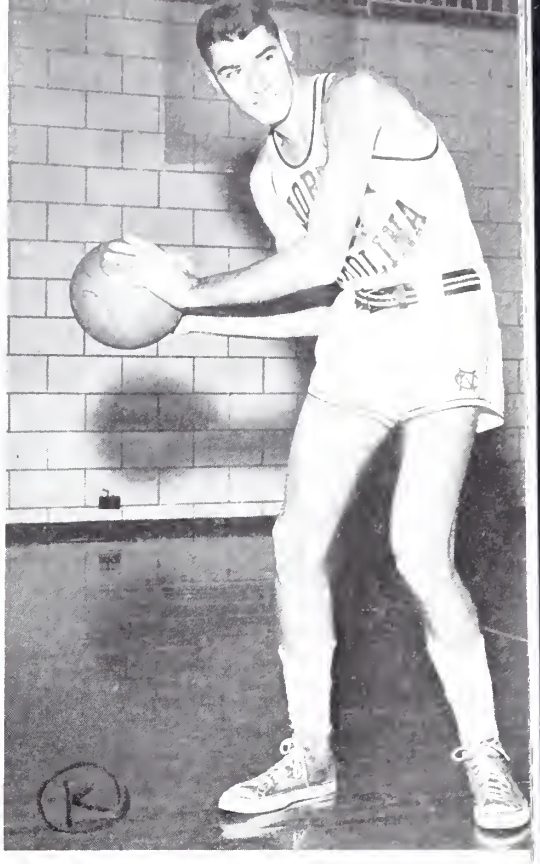
York Larese and Doug Moe also starred for the Tar Heels in the early part of the decade. Larese ranks as the greatest free throw shooter in UNC history. Moe was a sensational all-around star and still plays professionally with the Virginia Squires of the American Basketball Association.

A teammate of Moe's was Larry Brown, a diminutive guard who rates as one of the finest playmakers ever at Carolina. Brown played on the 1964 U.S. Olympic team which swept the Gold Medal. He also is still active in the pro ranks.

Billy Cunningham, a three-time All-ACC selection was the next star on the Tar Heel scene. He made All-America in 1965. The "Kangaroo Kid" is a perennial all-star for the NBA's Philadelphia 76ers.

Bob Lewis, a thin sharp-shooter from Washington, D.C., stepped into Cunningham's shoes as the next star performer. He holds the Carolina school single game scoring record with 49 points against Florida State.

One of UNC's greatest players was Larry Miller, an All-America in 1968 when he led his team to the national finals where they lost to Lew Alcindor and UCLA. Miller twice was named the ACC Player of the Year. Playing at 6-4 and 215 pounds, Miller was a rugged performer who dazzled crowds with driving lay-ups and his great variety of shots around the basket.



Lennie Rosenbluth—National Player of the Year in 1957.

Bill Bunting, Dick Grubar and Rusty Clark were starters on three straight Carolina teams which won the ACC regular season championship, the ACC Tournament, the Eastern Regionals and advanced to the NCAA final four. Bunting had a great senior season and made the All-ACC team. Grubar was a playmaker supreme and may have been the most popular athlete to ever wear the Carolina Blue. Clark, one of the most under-rated players in Tar Heel history, was a tough defensive performer and a strong rebounder.

And then there was Charlie Scott—who may just be the greatest of them all. Charlie excelled in every phase of the game. However, it was his quickness that set him apart from all the other great players. In fact, Dave Bing has called Scott "the fastest man in the world on a basketball court."

Charlie made All-America and in his senior year was named the ACC Athlete of the Year. In 1968 he starred for the United States in the Olympic Games.

And the list of Carolina greats continues to grow. The current roster may produce more players who will rank with the all-time stars. Carolina has a fabulous tradition in the game and the men who play here do great honor to the school and to themselves.

CARMICHAEL

How many basketball teams can claim a winning record of better than 88 per cent on their home court? North Carolina can.

An amazing mark of 48 victories and only six defeats has been fashioned by the Tar Heels while playing in William D. Carmichael, Jr. Auditorium.

The University's "Blue Heaven", rated one of the most beautiful basketball arenas in the South, is located in the center of the Chapel Hill campus.

Carmichael Auditorium was opened in the fall of 1965 and the first basketball game was played there against William and Mary in December of that year. The Tar Heels won that game, 82-68, and went on to post a 16-11 record that season.

At every game the 8,800 seat arena is filled to capacity, for Tar Heel fans love the exciting brand of basketball played here.

Carolina set the Carmichael scoring record in the second game played in the new auditorium when it smashed the University of Richmond by the lop-sided score of 127-76.

All the permanent seats in Carmichael Auditorium are painted "Carolina Blue." The interior of the building is painted in several shades of blue with the lightest at the floor and the darkest near the top.

Most of the Carolina athletic offices are located in Carmichael. Athletic Director Homer Rice has his office there along with Coach Dean Smith's basketball offices and a basketball film room.

The building adjoins Woolen Gym, longtime site of varsity basketball competition and now the center of physical education and intramural activities.

The Auditorium is named for the late William D. Carmichael, Jr., one of the most popular gentlemen ever to serve on the University campus. He gave up a lucrative Wall Street business to become associated with Carolina.

In Chapel Hill, Carmichael was comptroller and later the vice president of the Consolidated University. He served for a time as acting president of the Consolidated University. He died in 1961.

UNC Educational Foundation

With another promising basketball team at Carolina this year, interest in the University's Educational Foundation is reaching an all-time high.

Ernie Williamson, executive secretary of the Educational Foundation, reports a great response from Tar Heels everywhere to the excellence in Carolina athletics.

"There is no doubt but that interest in the Foundation has reached an all-time high," he says. "Of course, there are many reasons for this. Basketball prospects are bright as usual, our football rebuilding program is moving right on schedule and our other sports teams rank among the best in the Atlantic Coast Conference."

Williamson always has contended that a donation to the Educational Foundation is not specifically a donation to athletics. He says that the high caliber young man who is awarded an athletic scholarship not only pays dividends on the athletic field, but also is a great asset to the academic standards of the University.

Williamson feels that the overall bonus is in helping a worthy young man obtain a college education. Athletics, while important, come second.

Any donation to the Educational Foundation is welcome. The small donor of today is the Big Ram of tomorrow. Membership in the Rams Club is restricted to those who contribute $100 or more.

Foundation members receive priority on seat locations for football and basketball games. There are other benefits, too, for members. A special room on the south wing of Kenan Field House serves as a meeting place for Rams and members of their families. This area is open two hours before the big football games and provides a lounge, picnic facilities and restrooms for those who come early. In the off-season, other functions related to the Foundation are held there.

"A Foundation membership is a badge of prestige and loyalty to the University," Williamson points out. "Many of our finest members, however, did not necessarily attend the University of North Carolina. They just heard about our program and felt it was worthy."

It is important to point out that all donations to the Foundation are tax deductible.

ORIGIN AND INCORPORATION

Three loyal and athletic-minded University of North Carolina alumni met in the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure at Raleigh in December of 1938 and organized the Educational Foundation, Inc.

They are John Umstead Jr. of Chapel Hill, Max Abernathy of Raleigh and Benton Stacy of Reidsville.

A charter was drawn with these three men as the incorporators and submitted to the late O. Max Gardner, who had his law firm clear it with the Internal Revenue Department as a charitable organization. The charter was issued December 7, 1938.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Educational Foundation, Inc., is to raise funds for providing scholarships or grants-in-aid at the University to worthy and qualified high school students with athletic ability.

The Educational Foundation, Inc., operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

It has the blessing and good will of all the University administration and, in its unique field, occupies a status similar to that of the Business Foundation, The Medical Foundation, and other money-raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

The full amount of all donations of Foundation members is used for scholarships and grants. The organization has no administrative expense.

Ernie Williamson

One of the most popular members of the Carolina athletic family is Big Ernie Williamson, the executive secretary of the Educational Foundation.

Ernie was a Carolina graduate with A.B. and M.A. degrees. The native of Crewe, Va., played one season of football here under Carl Snavely and was regarded as an outstanding tackle.

He was lured away to play professional football and performed with Los Angeles and Washington before being sidelined for good with a knee injury.

He returned to Chapel Hill to finish work on his degrees, then went to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., as an assistant football coach for two years and head football coach for three seasons.

He returned to Carolina to accept his present position in 1957. Until recently, he also served as recruiter for the Carolina football program and still helps out in that department when time will permit.

Williamson is an expert fisherman and hunter.

He is married to the former Elva Smith of Lawrenceville, Va., and they have a son, Wayne, 22, and a daughter, Carole, 14.

PRESS - RADIO - TV

Carolina has one of the largest and most enthusiastic press followings of any team in college basketball.

Newspapers, radio and television reporters across the state (and the entire south) keep daily tabs on the progress of Dean Smith's men in Carolina blue.

The Carmichael Auditorium press box always is filled to capacity for home games. More than 40 radio stations in three states will carry the Tar Heel Basketball Network during the coming season. Woody Durham, popular Greensboro telecaster, will handle the play-by-play with Bob Quincy of The Charlotte Observer doing the radio color.

Durham also will serve as M.C. throughout the season on The Dean Smith Show, which will be televised each week on stations over the state.

Working press credentials for Carolina home games can be secured by contacting Jack Williams, Sports Promotion and Information Director. Requests are screened with care to insure a working press box. Children, wives and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of The Basketball Writers' Association of America.

Something new has been added to the Carolina press box area this year. Lovely Lailee McNair, Tar Heel coed from Chevy Chase, Md., will serve as official hostess.

A Town Touched by Strange Magic

Chapel Hill

The late Jake Wade wrote this piece a good many years ago. Even today, it captures the spirit of this Town as well as anything we know. Mr. Wade was director of sports publicity at the University at the time of his death.

This is a town touched by strange magic and one to which its peoples, many of them a curious breed, hold a rare and somewhat inexplicable attachment. Our town has no rivers, no mountains, no seas, but in the spring it is beautiful and in all seasons it is both wonderful and sad, romantic in the spirit of the youth it harbors in the educational process of the great State University, which is the town's principal industry.

Chapel Hill, where bells wake you in the morning, regardless of whether you live in the Beta house, Cobb dormitory or on Laurel Hill Road, and where the bells keep ringing periodically the day long, with the chimes taking over in the majesty of twilight and on certain important occasions such as the big football games.

Not, really, a village any more, although its inhabitants, some living in the past, like to consider it as such . . . None of us will go so far as to say that it possesses the tranquility and serenity of the Twenties, when Thomas Wolfe, and Paul Green and LeGette Blythe and "Monk" McDonald and the Carmichaels found adventure, melancholy and beauty in their diverse pursuits on the old campus and the unexplored lands beyond . . . It is not as small, and not quite as nice, but almost, and there is a whole new world of knowledge to be discovered here with resources of mind and matter in abundance.

Chapel Hill, where the civic clubs do not sing, salute flags or wear badges, but unostentatiously and quietly engage in humanitarian projects as earnestly as their backslapping counterparts of the cities . . . Where its only commercial radio station taboos hillbilly tunes and plays sweet music and deathless great arias.

In Chapel Hill that man in dungarees, coming out of the post office, is just as apt to be a best-selling novelist as the town's leading plumber or the divorced author of profound treatises on the science of nuptial compatibility . . . Where shoe shines, on the most modest leather, cost you twenty cents per copy, with the same treatment from five to ten cents cheaper in a much larger town across the way, but there you are not waited on by one of the town's most popular citizens who contributes philosophy, sound sense and remarkably accurate football prognostications as a dividend to the dab of mundane polish.

People in our town go to church, pray, are kind and considerate, both the students and the townspeople, as in all towns . . . But where some of the ministers never wear hats, do wear sweaters, and sometimes drive the more modest editions of those little foreign make sports cars, but their democracy in manners is no compromise with the dignity of their souls, for our town is blessed with able and Godly preachers.

Chapel Hillians, like the folks in your town or city, play poker and bridge but, strangely, little or no gin rummy, and they play golf and handball . . . Chapel Hill, where the tiniest tots are able swimmers, and old men play an exciting brand of tennis . . . Where there are circles and cliques, as in all towns, for the socials, round tables and sports, but where those who travel together are frequently of oddly dissimilar tastes . . . A famous singer breaks bread often and attends games with a Kenan professor . . . A coach has tea regularly with a brilliant author . . . A University department head finds more wisdom, truth and beauty in the philosophy of a bistro keeper than in the ivory towers of his town intellectual level and prefers his company . . . But Chapel Hill is a town of neighbors who are bird watchers and who tend their flowers with loving care and talk over stone walls and drink their coffee or cocktails while talking oftenest about their children and grandchildren . . . That's Chapel Hill. God bless our town and its gentle way of life.

A highly regarded, yet still unproven, University of North Carolina freshman team faces one of its toughest schedules in years this fall.

Coach Bill Guthridge outlines two goals for his 1971-72 squad:

"Our primary concern is to orient the players to the North Carolina philosophy of offense and defense, preparing them for varsity competition. Our next aim is to win as many games as possible."

Guthridge has been pleased with the work of the team in early practices, noting, "Everyone has displayed great effort and hard work on the court. We should have a fine team if the enthusiasm and good attitude continue."

Five scholarship players highlight the Tar Baby line-up along with several other talented boys.

Ed Stahl from Columbus, Ohio; Donald Washington, Washington, D.C.; and Craig Swanson, New York, N.Y. should operate in the frontcourt. Greensboro's Ray Harrison and Brad Hoffman from Columbus, Ohio, add balance in the backcourt.

As usual, the Tar Babies will venture into competition against rugged conference foes more than any other ACC team. The schedule features three games with Duke as well as contests against N.C. State, Wake Forest, Virginia and Clemson.

From the Coach's Files

Part of a Letter From Dave Chadwick of the 1970-71 team:

". . . I thank you for your patience and your continued guidance both on and off the court. I now look back and reminisce over four of the most fruitful years of my life—not only as a player, but in learning the responsibilities involved with a young man's maturing process.

"Coach Smith, words seem so useless and futile in attempting to express my feeling toward you and the entire basketball program. May I simply say thank you again and hope you know it comes from my innermost feelings."

Part of a Letter From Lee Dedmon of the 1970-71 team:

". . . You've done so much for me besides help me to become a better basketball player. In many ways, you've tried to help me grow and mature and I want you to know that I realize and appreciate this.

"Because of you and the University, I now have a good college education and a bright future. Thanks again for your interest and concern in my well-being on and off the basketball court."

UNC Defensive Ace Steve Previs shows why he led the Tar Heels in assists last year with nifty pass to Dennis Wuycik against South Carolina.

When the Tar Heels swept to the championship of the National Invitational Tournament in New York, it was forward Bill Chamberlain who played the hero's role. The picture shows Chamberlain getting a victory ride from teammates George Karl (L) and Don Eggleston after he was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

Coach Dean Smith and his star forward Dennis Wuycik (right) swept top awards in Atlantic Coast Conference play last season. Smith was named ACC Coach of the Year for directing the Tar Heels to the regular season championship and Wuycik made the all-ACC team.
